

Storyboards that Bridget & I created in order to develop the Investigations Blog

Image 1: The idea I mapped out on my first visit to Bridget.

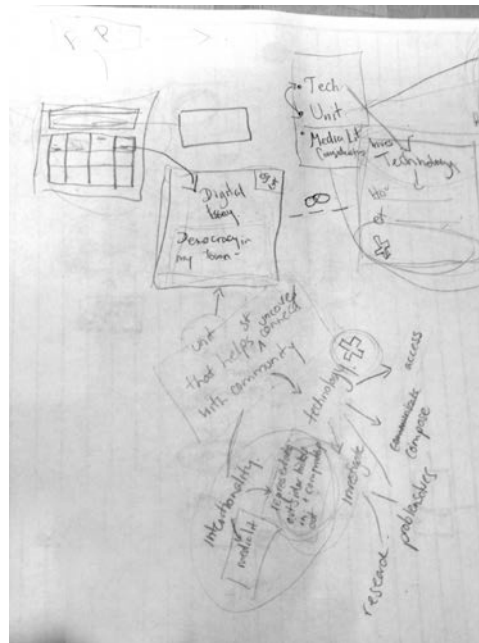

Image set 2: Ideas fleshed out some more. What was the purpose of the page? What kind of information would it have on it? How would it look?

- I knew there would be a "mosaic" of images that would be the front door to each of your posts.
- I knew that each of you would create two posts: one for the unit plan & one for the technology.
- I wanted to decide how to create unity in the site (i.e. make it look like we were working on the same project). What would you have choice on and what would Bridget & I predetermine? How would it be to have 20 people design the page? Where did I want you to focus your creative and mental energies?

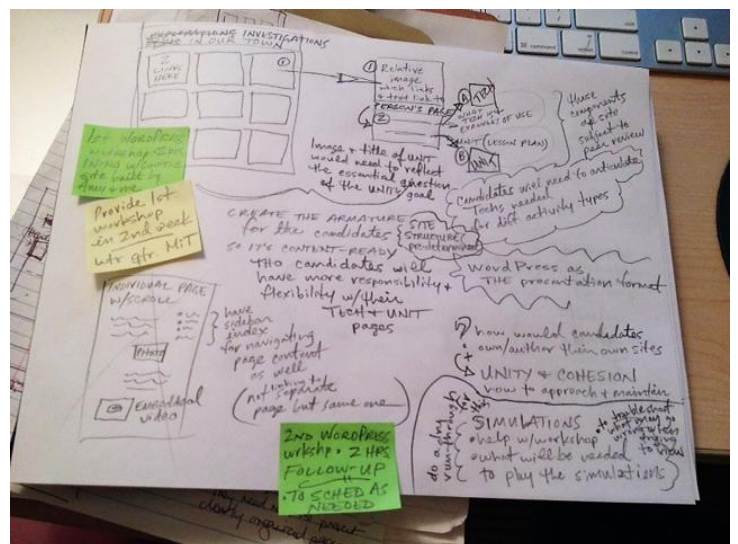

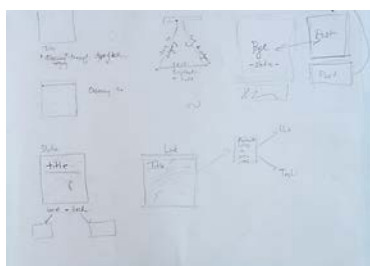

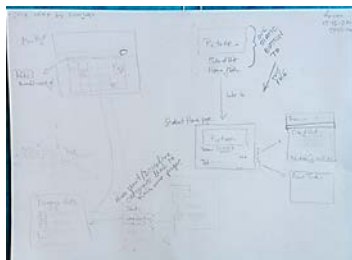

Image 2: What will be the topics and sub-topics
What categories shall we use to sort the posts?

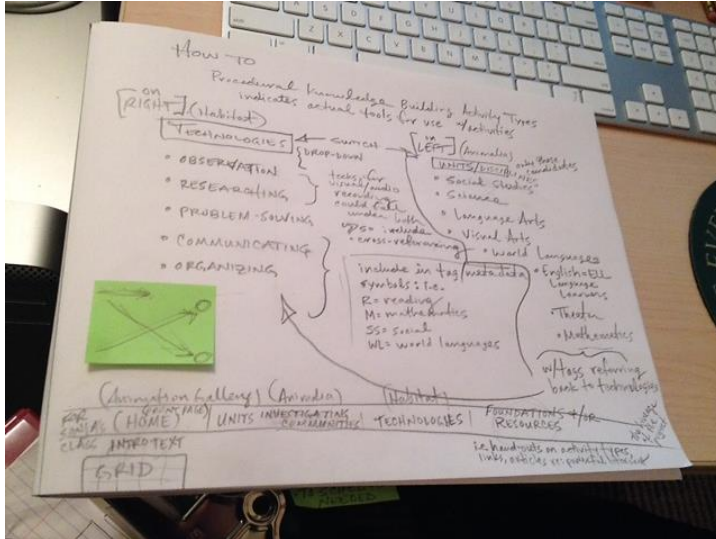

Image 3: Example of someone else's storyboard planning cycle that plans out how the user will encounter and interact with the site

