2016 was a good year for us, with a nice long ski season and an even better start on snow for 2016-17. In 2016 Judy completed her second year as a Ski Ambassador at Mt. Bachelor – helping folks avoid dangerous situations like what you see at left in January!

At right is a beautiful February moonset from our home in Bend, where we can often enjoy such sights.

Below, a clear March day catches John skiing at Mt. Bachelor with nearby peaks in the background.

Below, a radiant April sunset from our balcony!

In May we went to Portland again for Mozart's Magic Flute – especially wonderful because of Maurice Sendak's fabulous scenery.

June opened the hiking season when friends Russ & Sandra joined us at Hager Mountain.

In July (right), Judy played again in Tetherow's Ceilidh golf tournament – partnering with friend Debbie Kerr – and enjoying some strange Scottish beverage before the 7th Tee.

In August (below), we spent a few memorable days hiking and riding (!) in the Trinity Alps at a dude ranch on our return from John's cousin Susan's 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration in Oakland.

September (above) found us once again at Mt. Rainier for our annual expedition with the Fox-Dobbs.

October brought lovely weather for golf, and it was a good year for John, here hitting a nice Tee shot on Tetherow's 3rd hole. If you look carefully, you can see his ball!

November brought more wonderful hiking in the lowlands, here approaching Chush Falls on Wychus Creek through a recent burn.

December brought one of many opportunities to talk about climate change – here Judy marches with Bend's Great Old Broads for Wilderness – the Bitterbrush Broads.

In closing, we hope you had a wonderful holiday season, and wish you good health and happiness for 2017.
