

Dear colleague,

The International Water Resources Association (IWRA) invites you to participate at the XVth World Water Congress to be held from 25 to 29 May 2015 in Edinburgh, Scotland. The XVth World Water Congress will provide a platform for open discussions and debates among scientists, practitioners and policy makers from both developed and developing countries from different disciplines and sectors.

Theme

Global Water, a resource for development: Opportunities, challenges and constraints

Sub-themes

- Global challenges for water governance
- Revisiting water paradigms
- Non-conventional sources of water
- Valuing water: monetary and non-monetary dimensions
- Water allocation among competing uses and users
- Management of water resources
- Key vulnerabilities and risks
- Transboundary river basins and shared aquifers – the end of the conflict discourse?

To submit an abstract or for more information, visit the website:

www.worldwatercongress.com

Best wishes

IWRA Executive Office